

Year 4 Super Sentences

Silently Anansi walked to the parrot and whispered, "Hey Parrot! Instead of sitting on that rough old tree branch, sit on this new soft net", trying to trick him.

The Jade Emperor rewarded the rat with immortality as well as naming the first year after him.

One warm, sunny day, Anansi was walking through the forest looking up at the towering pines and treacherous cliffs.

His cunning mind is cruel and selfish, and his hairy legs are midnight black.

Not long afterwards, the exhausted tiger came, and the emperor was so delighted with his courage and strength that he was happy to give the tiger a respectable third place.